Dick Davenant believes in putting thinks egactly as they are according to Leadly Murray, and keeping them so at somebody's expense. Dick has a mill d wn on upper Brandywine-makes the best corn weal in the market, and has the widest range of custom of any miller in the four Delaware Hundreds.

The other morning, Sam Slanders slambanged into Dick's mill after a bundred of meal, and put it to Dick this way : Mornin', Dick. What's meal?

Meal-as usual, Sam. I mean how is it?

Pretty well, thank you. Always is. Blast it, man-what do you charge Don't charge at all, Sam. Have to sel!

for each these war times. How does it go? In barrels, bags, pillow-cases—some times in tin pans. Confound it all. How can you afford it ? I can't in reality. But I have to sell as cheap as they do in the village. Can't you understand English?

Not your way of speaking it.
Well, I'll be hanged. Here's a five dollar note. Will that buy a hundred? A bundred what, Sam? Uan't I make the man understand me?

Mr. Davenant, I want to buy a hundred weight of corn meal. How much will it Just a bundred weight, of course. Look here, Dick—take this five, and give me some meal for it. Certainly, Mr. Slathers. Here is a dollar change, and now I'll weigh you out a hundred pounds of meal.

"A Cry from Macedonia."

There's a cry from Macedonia, Come and help us,
The light of the Gospel bring—O come!
Let us bear the joyful tidings of salvation,
We thirst for the living spring;
O, ye heralds of the cross, be up and doing,
Reisember the great command—away!
"Go ye forth and preach the Word to every creature"—
Proclaim it in steary hand.

Preclaim it in every land.
They shall gather from the East,
They shall gather from the West,
With the patriarche of old,
And the ransoned shall return
To the kingdom of the blest
With their harps and crowns of gold.

O have beautiful their feet upon the moustains. The tidings of peace who being — who bring. To the nations of the earth who sit in darkness, and teil them of Ziou's king.

Then, ye beraids of the cross, he up and doing, Go work in your Master's field—away!

Bound the trumpet, sound the trumpet of salvation, The Lord is your strength and shield.

Let then hall the Savier's hirth,
And the news of pardon free,
Till the knowledge of the truth

Fhall extend to all the earth
As the water over the sea.

There's a cry from Maccoons, ac.

Ye have 'listed in the army of the faithful,
Like heroes the battle fight—away!
There are fose on every hand that will assail you,
Then gird on your armor bright;
With the hanner of the Cross unfuried before you,
The sword of the Spirit wield—away!
Ye shall conquer thro His nurrey who hath loved you.
The Lord is your strength and shield.
Ye are marching to the land
Where the saints in glory stand,
And the just for joy shall sing;
Ye by faith shall bring it nigh,
Ye shall reach it by and by,
And your shouts of triumph ring!
There's a cry from Maccdonia, Ac.

"Music Hath Charms," &c .- The Vicksburg Herald relates the following "On the late trip of the steamer James Watson from this city, bound for Memphis, when nearing a dangerous point about sixty miles from bere, she was bailed by about sixty guerrillas on the bank of the river. The Captain, thinking discretion the better part of valor, requested some officers and soldiers, who were standing upon the deck at the time, to go below, and he ordered the tune of Dixie to be played on the calliope. Instead of the rebels firing, they commenced cheering the steamer, and she passed on her way unmolested."

EDUCATETHE MASSES - Without knowledge, without science, without education, a nation can not long be free. An humschoolmester and ragged scebins, are more terrible to the despot than legions of armed soldiers. Rear year children in ignorance, and they are ready to be made slaves. Educate them, teach them how to be free, and no power on earth can enslave Deodati, Professor at Geneva, was one day saked what he thought of the preaching of Pamoulin; to which be snewered enseringly, "Clear waters ore never deep." Shortly afterwards, Deodati himself delivered a sermon, and Dumoulin was saked his opinion. Dumoulin, who had heard the remark of the critic, parodied the exsion, and answered, "Deep waters are

FULTON'S STEAMBOAT -In a speech in New Orleans, recently, Jacob Barker mentioned incidentally that when Robert Fulton's machinery for the first steamboat came from the manufactory in England to New York, it was consigned to him, and that it actually remained in his commission warehouse six months before the money could be raised to pay the charges

SHEEPISH. - A fellow came to see his Intended wife, and for a long time could think of nothing to say. At last, a great the his father's sheep would all be undone. "Well," said she, kindly, taking him by the hand, "I'll keep one of them."
